PC

1. The aforesaid matters impugn an order dated 29.9.2006 passed by the Addl.Sessions Judge, Greater Bombay granting anticipatory bail. The Advocate for the petitioners states that the petitions have become infructuous as the anticipatory bail was granted only for a period of 4 months and that period has already come to an end. He however, makes a grievance that the investigating officer has not given 72 hours notice to the accused indicating his intention to arrest them. The investigating officer is present in the Court. He states that he intends to arrest the accused in the case. He has however, not given 72 hours notice because of the pendency of these writ petitions. The petitions are disposed off as infructuous and it is made clear that the investigating officer can proceed to give 72 hours notice before arresting the accused. The notice is not to be given on any Friday. The accused persons will have liberty to make a fresh application and if any such application is made, the same will be considered on its own merits on the basis of the material as collected during the investigation and without being influenced by the observation made in the impugned order. All the aforesaid matters are therefore, disposed off as infructuous.
